

ADDRESS FROM THE COMPANY DIRECTOR

Dear ladies and gentlemen,

The ongoing industrialisation and technological advancements have increased the need to protect the environment. The companies of the Groups of Chemosvit and Finchem have been following this philosophy very closely. In addition to reducing waste, emission and water pollution through modernisation of each of the companies, a separate company CHEMOSVIT ENVIRONCHEM was founded to treat the complex issue of converting, or disposing waste and purifying waste water. From 1997, i.e. in eleven years of the company's existence, some of its activities were moved to Chemosvit Energochem, for example waste water treatment, and a new pyrolysis incineration plant HOVAL was built to burn the waste. These days, Chemosvit Environchem is, in particular, involved in the plastic waste recycling and its subsequent use for the production of technical moulds. It also co-operates with external companies in capitalising or disposing of the waste from the companies of the Chemosvit, or Finchem Groups, which cannot be processed on-site.

A rapid production modernisation of 2007 created good preconditions for increasing the amount and improving the quality of recycled products and for raising the volume of technical moulds based not only on recycled, but also original materials. The implementation of new technologies and procedures demands constant improvements in qualification and skills of operators, maintenance men and technicians. By recruiting new young people we managed to set up a team able to cope with the demanding requirements from our clients.

Lately, Chemosvit Environchem has reached success not only in the domestic market, but also abroad, in particular in the states of Central Europe, where they co-operate with well-established partners. Being a member of the strong group of Chemosvit companies is the guarantee of reliability and first quality for our business partners and we want to continue building on these values also in the future.

Ing. Július Frkáň

Vice-Chairman of the Board of Directors and Director of the Company